THURSDAY MEDIA ROUND-UP

Bernhard Langer Begins Quest for Fourth Insperity Invitational Title on Friday

Bernhard Langer, the only player to win consecutive Insperity Invitational title (2007-2008), will set out to defend his 2014 championship on Friday. Langer, who has not won in 2015, has only had one full season where he's not won within the first eight events (2012).

"This tournament is very special for many reasons. It was my first victory on the Champions Tour and then last year was my 20th victory on the Champions Tour," said Langer. "I won three times on two golf courses at this event. It is very unique that I have a chance to go four times which is awesome. I like everything about the tournament. It is well run, a great course, and a great sponsor."

Langer held off a charging Fred Couples by a stroke to win his third Insperity Invitational one year ago. Couples had an up-and-down front nine, but birdied the 10th hole to get within six strokes of Langer. Couples then proceeded to birdie four straight holes (12 through 15) and pulled within a stroke when Langer failed to get up and down from the greenside bunker at the par-3 16th hole. After Couples missed a five-foot par putt on 18, Langer played the final hole with a two-stroke cushion. Langer bogeyed the final hole, but still held on for a one-shot victory.

What the Pros are Saying in the Media Center

"It's a wonderful golf course. The Woodlands is a great track. I remember playing it in my days when I played the regular Tour in the Shell Houston Open and I think all the players love being here. The Insperity crew do a tremendous job of hosting us this week."

....Mark O'Meara

"It's amazing how good the guys still play. What Bernhard Langer has done out here, his accomplishments on the Champions Tour, at times I think he plays as good of golf as he's ever played in his life. And there's times when I play now that I hit it just as good as I did when I was really in my prime on the regular tour. So the quality of play really hasn't diminished that much."

...Mark O'Meara

“In a way – the course has got water on it – but it’s quite more European. You can see all the greens, they’re right in front of you. Fairways are pretty generous. You know, I think at the moment the way the course is playing, it’s playing pretty long because it’s wet and that will suite me again. As I said, it just seems to suit my eye. Sometimes when I say that, it helps me to play better.”

...Ian Woosnam

“I won my first two tournaments on the PGA TOUR in 1991 back-to-back, and a friend of mine mentioned it to me when I got home to Atlanta, that I did that. I was like, okay, that’s in my head, that’s kind of cool. So it would be kind of neat to be able to do it again this week. I think both Joe and I feel the same way. You win as a team, and you win your first event, but you like to do it on your own. You like to win like everybody else, and it’s not a team concept. We are both looking forward to playing this week, and seeing if we can have a chance on Sunday.”

Esteban Toledo Makes His Prediction on Saturday’s Big Fight

Esteban Toledo – the winner of the 2013 Insuperity Invitational – will be scrapping it out with 79 of the best golfers on the Champions Tour this week in search of his second title at The Woodlands Country Club Tournament Course. But following Saturday’s second round, his focus will be squarely on the big fight when Floyd Mayweather and Manny Pacquiao take to the ring.

Toledo was a professional boxer for four years, and had a 16-1 record, but appendicitis cut his career short. Click here to check out Toledo's prediction on the fight.
