Insperity Invitational's Lisa Arvidson Wins Coveted PGA TOUR Champions
2024 Volunteer of the Year Award

THE WOODLANDS, TX—One of the Insperity Invitational's most committed volunteers, Lisa Arvidson, was the recipient of the 2024 PGA TOUR Champions Volunteer of the Year award.

Arvidson, who embodies the adage of going above and beyond, was recognized for her time, effort and dedication to supporting the award-winning tournament with the distinguished tribute at the PGA TOUR Champions annual awards banquet on Tuesday evening.

"This is such a tremendous honor," said Arvidson. "We moved to The Woodlands in 2011, and I didn't know a soul, so I did what I needed to do to get to know some people in the area, and that was to volunteer for the tournament because it is such an important event in the community. It is volunteering through this event that I have been able to make lifelong friends on and off the golf course."

Several weeks before the 2024 playing of the Insperity Invitational presented by UnitedHealthcare, one of the Marshal Co-Chairmen – a 21-year volunteer – informed the staff that due to unforeseen medical concerns, he would be unable to participate. Despite the difficult news, the team knew exactly who to approach to step into this critical role.

With 11 years of volunteering experience, including serving as Hole Captain for two holes in recent years, all eyes turned to Arvidson to oversee 200 marshals and nine Hole Captains. She immediately agreed to take on the challenge, and quickly adapted to her new responsibilities, learning the ropes from the existing Marshal Co-Chairman. Arvidson spent long hours at the course, from sunrise to sunset, earning rave reviews from Marshals and Hole Captains alike for her attention to detail and effective communication.

"The success of any great event starts with its volunteer force. It is the spirit of our dedicated army of volunteers, like Lisa, that is the reason why the Insperity Invitational is annually recognized as a premier event on Tour amongst the players," said Bryan Naugle, executive director, Insperity Invitational. "She is a key part of our tournament's success. We are incredibly grateful to have her on our team."

It was a full-circle moment for Arvidson at this year's event, as she was now working alongside Roy - the gentleman who introduced her to the Insperity Invitational when she relocated to The Woodlands, TX from New Jersey – helping her connect with the community through golf.

"Moving to southern Texas was a real eye opener for a Jersey girl like myself. The daily pace of life was much slower than I was used to, and I tried to build my community through golf," added Arvidson. "I remember making that first call to Roy (Holes 5 & 6 Captain) and I had trouble understanding his southern accent, but I was interested right away, and I have loved volunteering for this event ever since. I look forward to seeing the players every year during the Pro-Am who turn the corner on hole 5 and recognize us with big smiles, welcoming us and thanking us for volunteering. Some even give us golf tips along the way.”

Arvidson is one of more than 900 volunteers who are the backbone to delivering the Tradition of Excellence throughout the Insperty Invitational’s 21-year history.

“We fully retired to Florida eight years ago, and that didn’t stop us. We continue to enjoy going back to Texas the week of the Insperty Invitational to spend time with friends on and off the course, and will continue to do so,” said Arvidson. “It is a great team and I’m so glad I was able to step in.”

Arvidson will be back in her volunteer role when the stars of the PGA TOUR Champions return for the 2025 Insperty Invitational presented by UnitedHealthcare, April 28 – May 4.
